

Descendants of Yelles Kasel

Generation No. 1

1. YELLES¹ KASEL was born Abt. 1590 in Kriesham, Germany, and died 1681 in Germany. He married UNK in Germany.

Notes for YELLES KASEL:

Yelles and family lived in hiding most of their lives, moving from town to town, but Yele's main residence was Kriesham and Worm, Germany, which are about six miles apart. Yelles was a Mennonite Minister, a poet of note, a friend of Martin Luther, and a farmer.

William Penn, who was later to be known as the founder of Penn's Woods, or what is known today as the State of Pennsylvania, came to speak, in 1681, at a meeting in the city of Kassel at Frankfort, when he was 37 years old. He then went to Kriesham for a meeting. The meeting was held in secret because that type of religious preaching was forbidden by the authorities. Yelles and members of his family traveled from Worm, Germany, by wagon, to attend the meeting. Mr. Penn spoke of the need for religious freedom. Yelles and other Kasels present, members of the newly emerging Mennonite Church were so impressed with Penn's ideas, that they invited him to their home. Penn told them of the free land that was available in the new world. Two sons of Yelles were the first Cassels to come to America under the terms of a promise to William Penn. They were JOHANNES and Arnold. They came on the ship Jefferies and it took seven months to make the voyage.

Jacob's Shawnee name was Taumee or Taumee-Elenee. This name was anglicized to White Tassel, however the actual meaning is "Corn Man". This name was bestowed, no doubt, because of his light or white silky hair, which reminded the Indians of corn silk. His slender stature also contributed to the reason for the name. He was slender like the corn stalk.

Medical Information: He was an Albino, or very light skinned even for a German
Name Taumee-Elenee: Shawnee name

Notes for SOWEGA (SHAWNEE INDIAN MAIDEN):

Sowega married Jacob (White Tassel) Cassel in 1736 in Lancaster Co, Pa. Soon thereafter she changed her name to Mary Elizabeth. She was a Kispokotha (Warrior Clan) Shawnee. Waupaathee is swan in Shawnee, therefore Sowega must denote some effeminate action of a swan, perhaps "Gliding Swan" or "Swimming Swan". The Shawnee had 34 tribes (gens or clans) or name groups, as they are sometimes referred to by. The Shawnee child is named by the elder of the tribe or gens of that particular division of the nation. In this case it would be the Kispokotha (Warrior Clan). "They generally bestow a name descriptive of some act of the animal or bird which is the totem of the infant named". (Trowbridge: 1939, p. 26). "Women receive names within their totem that convey an idea of softness or effeminacy". In general Shawnee "names are always more or less descriptive of some event which has occurred, or of particular anticipated points in the character of the person, or of the animal which is their totem or name group". (Trowbridge: 1939, p. 27) Therefore it is fairly safe to assume that Sowega is a name that identifies some effeminate nature of behavior of a swan.

Notes for MCKINLEY CASSELL:

Died as the result of an explosion. On a Jan morning in 1909, Allen Cassell, Tom Burke, Charles and Mckinley Cassell were digging some coal out of the mine on the farm. Blasting powder was needed so Mckinley went to the house to fetch some. Thinking the powder might be damp he tossed a bit into the fireplace. The gunpowder blew out and into the open keg and caused an explosion that fatally burned his mother, sister Flora, and himself. All died later that evening.
