Generation No. 1

1. ROBERT J.<sup>1</sup> HYDE was born October 1842 in Wales, United Kingdom, and died April 26, 1932 in Evansville, IN. He married CATHERINE TOUHIL Abt. 1865. She was born December 1845 in Ireland, and died 1922 in Evansville, IN.

Notes for ROBERT J. HYDE:

Robert J. Hyde is regarded as one of Evansville's "early settlers".

Immigrated to the United States in 1850 when he was about 8 years old.

Robert J. Hyde was a Union soldier in the Civil War. He was actually a mercenary, he went into the service for someone who was drafted. He was paid to take this person's place. He was captured and became a prisoner of war. He was sent to the Confederate prison camp at Andersonville.

According to his grandson, Jack, he would say the country mourned the death of the wrong man, instead of Lincoln, they should have mourned John Wilkes Booth. During the war Lincoln refused to exchange P.O.W.s and Robert J. was subjected to some of the worst imprisonment during the Civil War at Andersonville for six months. With little running water and a lack of food the prisoners were forced to drink from the ditches that were intended for their waste and many were forced to eat rats that they caught in the compound.

He often told stories from his railroad days and how he had to run his train through Indian territory, often under attack from the Indians.

He was also a painting contractor for 50 years.

According to his granddaughter, Helen, everyone called him "Colonel". He never was a colonel in the army and she isn't quite sure how he came about this nickname.

He was very active in Democratic circles and at one time he had extensive real estate holdings on The north side of Evansville.

He served as a constable for a year.

Notes for CLARENCE R. HYDE:

Clarence Hyde known as "Aunt Clarence" to his nieces, died at the VA Hospital in Indianapolis in 1973. Clarence lived for a while in LA, California.

Clarence, in his latter years, had become something of a "pack rat". I remember after his death going through a box of miscellaneous things, mostly I remember seeing a lot of salt and pepper packets, the old kind that you got at fast food restaurants. One item that I kept was his checkbook cover. It was a simple black plastic type, the one the banks give you when you open your account, except it was personalized with his name on it. Somewhere along the line, with all my moves, I lost it.

Generation No. 3

Notes for JOHN "JACK" HALPIN HYDE:

The old house on Evans was in an old neighborhood that had turned over and was well past going down hill. I remember walking the dog with him and he never seemed afraid or concerned about his well being. Of course looking back, at the time I was too young to know any better. It seemed like a nice, normal area, only most everyone was black. This is probably where most of his grandchildren experienced their first racial experiences, and it probably helped most of us grow up with fewer prejudices than other kids of the time growing up in conservative, middle class neighborhoods.

Jack Hyde was a colorful individual. There are so many things that come to mind when thinking of Grandpa it's hard to know where to begin. Probably my first memories are of him telling me to sit up "sit straight as an arrow" and he always put his hand straight up. Sometimes he would do that "whistle" thing and when you looked over there his hand would be - straight up and he would have a very serious look on his face.

Going to the river on Saturdays was always exciting. Walking among the boats and trying to spin the props without getting caught. By the age of four I was sure that I would have a hand chopped off by one of those props. I always remember riding to or from the river, it didn't matter, and Grandpa would see an old run down shack and say, "That's where David's going to live". I'm sure he did that to everyone. A couple of pieces of artwork I purchased were of a river and an old shack. I wonder what Grandpa would say now!

I also remember his old TV, how could he watch that thing with the squiggly line down the center? And he must be the only person in the world who ever ate a half a Reese and saved the other half for later.

For a young child Grandpa was very intimidating and he used to scare me to death. I remember one time I snuck a piece of candy and he caught me. Well, we were just about to leave to go back to Indianapolis and to teach me a lesson he told me that it a X-Lax! Well, the joke was one him, because I didn't know what that was, so I just acted sorry and we left.

Jack Hyde was a great story teller.
