KNOTT

James Knott, founder of the family of this name in Maryland and Virginia, came out of England about seventeen years before Leonard Calvert planted his first settlement in Maryland in 1634. In "Hotten's Lists of Persons of Quality who Emigrated to Virginia" is the following:

"Mr. James Knott, age 23, came from England to Virginia in the ship George and settled in Accomac County on the Eastern Shore in 1617." The word Accomack was in that day used to designate the whole of that fertile strip of Virginia between the Atlantic ocean and the Chesapeake Bay, beginning at the southern line of what was afterwards Somerset (since 1742 Worcester) County, Maryland, to the tip end of Cape Charles. But one will look in vain for traces of James Knott in the records of the present Accomac County, for it was not cut off from Northampton County, where the ancient records are kept (dating from 1632), until about 1660-62. As James Knott's interests on the Eastern Shore were in Northampton County, it is there we find him, in Liber No. 1, folio 10, of these old records, as owner of land in 1632, situation "on the other side of King's Creek." He is also referred to on page 2 of the same book, in 1632, as having an apprentice named Phario Winen, the son of Jane Winen. Again we find mention of James Knott and his wife, Elinor, June 11, 1634, in Court Order Book No. 1, folio 37, Northampton County Records. After this he appears to have removed to Nansemond County, Virginia, for he is recorded as a land owner in that county in 1635, in volume 3, p. 188, of the Virginia Magazine. Also in volume 2, of the same magazine, p. 308, it is stated that James Knott, of Accomack, was granted 50 acres of land in Virginia City County, March 12, 1632.

Mr. Knott appears to have been a close friend of Governor Leonard Calvert, of Maryland. In this connection the following quaint document, executed by Giles Brent, October 10, 1642, speaks for itself:

"These parts witness that I Giles Brent of Kent ffort in the Isle of Kent have conveyed & sold & doe hereby convvey and sell unto my sister Mrs. Margaret Brent of St. Maries in Maryland all my lands goods debts due to me in the Province aforesaid for the consideration hereafter expresst, viz.: for satisfaction and payment of L73 English money wch I doe owe to herselfe, also of about L40 English money or between that and L30 2wch I owe to Mr. Richard Reed, also 1400 pounds of tob and cask I owe to Mr. Wm. Blunt and of 900 lbs. tob. & cask for 8000 of it to certain assignes of Mr. John Lewger also of 400 lbs. of tob. & cask I owe to Mr. Purfrey of Virg. of 1200 lbs. tob. & cask I have assumed to pay to Mr. Knott of Virginia for Mr. Leonard Calvert, Governor of Maryland" &c. Signed -- Giles Brent (Testamentary Business Prov. Court., Vol. 4, pp. 132,133, Maryland Archives).

Kilty* mentions the fact that Governor Leonard Calvert admonishes the people not to encroach upon the lands of "my friend Mr. Knott." As there is no record of James Knott having been granted lands in Maryland at the period contemplated, it may be that the following will explain it: Court at St. Maries, 1652:

"James Knott, defendant; John abbington, plaintiff; on petition for relief from act of Knott who cleared 100 areas of land that Abbington claimed as his own. Knott claimed to have had a verbal grant of land from Governor Leonard Calvert prior to the claim of Abbington" (Liber B, volume 10, p. 220, Provincial Court Proceedings, Maryland Archives).

James Knott was evidently a man of restless activity and is a very interesting personality to the delver in our ancient records. While he is known to have been an extensive land owner in Nansemond County, Virginia, he demands and receives 200 acres of land in St. Mary's County, Maryland, in 1651, for transporting himself and his minor son, Nathaniel, into the Province (Liber A B H, folio 237, Annapolis Land Records).

In Liber No. 1, folio 402, Annapolis Land Records, Thomas Warr in 1651, sells to James Knott, Gent., of Virginia, 200 acres of land which he describes as "the equal half of my plantation which I now live upon at Mattapony, ... St. Mary's County.: Consideration, 1390 pounds of tobacco.

Following is his will, in which, however, he does not mention all his sons.

Liber No. 1, folio 51, Annapolis Wills; James Knott, of Nansmond, in Virginia: Will dated September 4, 1651, proved May 13, 1653. Witness: George White, Devises: - To my threes sonnes Bernard Knott, Nathaniel Knott and William Knott, four cowes (mentions Bernard as his eldest son and stipulates that the "cowes" shall be kept together until he comes to the full age of 20 years); to my dau. Mary 6 cowes to be delivered by 25th of Dec. next, also a negro man to dau. Mary, to be delivered her in Oct. 1654; to son Bernard Knott 600 acres of land, "plantation whereon I now live, with reversion to his other children;" to sons Nathaniel & William Knott 600 acres of land, equally divided between them, "being the upper part of this division now in my possession, with reversion in case of death of either;" "I give to my sister E. M. Colins, Anna Young or any of her children 2 Cowes that shall come here to demand them: I give to my dau. Elizabeth Thomas, one cove;" balance of estate divided into five parts, viz.: "one part to my wife & four parts to my four children, Bernard, Nathaniel, William and Mary Knott; my loving wife and my son Bernard Knott to be my joint Exces; my loving son-in-law Thomas Thomas and my loving friend John Ascumb to be overseers of this my last will and testament."

Ellinor Knott, the late wife of James Knott, deceased, made oath that the will was that of her late husband, James Knott, May 13, 1653. On January 22, 1653, Thomas Cornwallis, Esq., filed a caveat to the will as the greatest creditor of James Knott, deceased.

"Daughter Elizabeth Thomas" was the wife of Thomas Thomas, of Calvert County, Maryland: "John Ascumb," overseer in the will, was John Ashcom, of Patuxent River, Calvert County, Maryland.

The lands of James Knott in St. Mary's County were conveyed to his son Francis, who conveyed some of them while living, and devised them in his will, proved in St. Mary's County, Mary 14, 1705, in his old age (Liber T B No. 2, folio 500, Annapolis Wills).

The lineal descendant of James Knott, Gent., General A. Leo Knott, has reflected honor on the name as one of Maryland's most distinguished legal lights.

Notes for ZACHARIAH KNOTT:

St. Mary's roots go back to 1741 when a small mission chapel was established in "Barnstown" under the guidance of the Jesuit missionaries who served St. John's Parish in Frederick, Maryland.

After fleeing France during the French Revolution, Father John Dubois became the pastor of St. John's Parish. In 1807, Father Dubois recognized the growth of the mission and proposed to Bishop John Carroll of Baltimore that a Catholic Church be built in upper Montgomery County. "Barnstown" was renamed "Barnesville" and became the site for the new parish. The church immediately enjoyed community involvement with Zachariah Knott donating 8 acres of land and another local parishioner donating nearby timber for its construction. Fr. Dubois moved on to Emmitsburg where he established Mount St. Mary's and was also spiritual director to St. Elizabeth Ann Seton. Later, as bishop of New York City, he ordained St. John Neumann to the priesthood. Because these two American saints were directly influenced by Fr. Dubois, they are depicted with him over the entrance to the present church.

Behind the church, St. Mary's cemetery is the site of mass burials of those C & O Railroad builders who succumbed to the Cholera epidemic. The cemetery also became the final resting place of many Civil War soldiers. Barnesville saw action during the Civil War as it changed hands between Confederate and Union soldiers at least three times.

History of Barnesville and Sellman, Maryland - Dona Lou Cuttler & Ida Lu Brown. This book tracks the history of Barnesville and Sellman, in Montgomery County, Maryland. The land that became Barnesville was surveyed for Jeremiah Hays, December 10, 1747. The tracts "Jeremiah's Park" and "Hopson's Choice" were just two of the properties that eventually were surveyed as lots in the town. Barnesville was laid out in 1822 and incorporated in 1888. The main street was the old Baltimore Road from the Monocacy River to Baltimore. Early residents of Loudoun County, VA, brought produce to market and boosted the local economy. Early residents include Zachariah Knott, John Plummer and Captain James Gleeson. The authors also include residences and buildings of the town, with pictures and descriptions of each. Among these are included: Grove Hotel and tavern, the Leonard Hays house, the site of James Barnes' cabin, the William T. Hilton house, St. Mary's Catholic Church, the site of Barnesville Methodist Episcopal Church and Cemetery, the Hays Family Cemetery, Daybreak Farm, the site of Hays School, the Baptist Church, Christ Episcopal Church and many others. The area which became Sellman was previously a farming community of rolling countryside with limited access. In 1838, the area was opened up by way of the road to Monocacy Chapel (as Beallsville was then known). Some of the early residents include William Darne, Dr. Samuel Newton Chiswell White, William Poole, William T. Hilton, Dr. Horatio Wilson and Abraham S. Hayes. Residences and buildings of Sellman are also covered, with descriptions and pictures, including: the site of Irving Thomas-Dorian P. Darne Mill, the telegraph office, Barnesville Station, Mt. Zion parsonage, Sellman School, Mt. Zion Wesleyan Methodist Church and Cemetery, the post office and store, the site of the Canning factory, Knott Farm, and many others. More than 100 historic pictures, some as old as 1862, highlight the book. Also included are maps of both Barnesville and Sellman, a bibliography and a fullname index. (1999), 2004,

Merry Makers Fireman's Ball

Seems like the social event of the year in which Julia Steis was in attendance.

June 7, 1898

Met a Sudden Death

Michael Stis, age 24 years, son of Joe Stis of St. Louis and a relative of Joe Steis of this city, was murdered in St. Louis, Tuesday night, while acting as a peacemaker.

Michael and his brother, John, were driving home in a wagon from the blacksmith shop about 6 o'clock in the evening. A baseball batted from a vacant lot, struck John in the head knocking his hat into the street. The ball lodged in the wagon and John threw it down the street. He got out to get his hat as a crowd of the ball players came up and they began quarreling.

Mike got out of the wagon to persuade John to leave the crowd and while trying to do so, the man who had batted the ball, struck him in the head with a jagged club.

Mike became unconscious and died the next morning. His assailant was arrested.

The funeral took place on Friday. Mr. & Mrs Jos. Steis and Mrs. Mary Steis, attending. Michael was a second cousin of Mr. Steis. He had been married a year and eight months and was an intelligent and industrious young man. The St. Louis family spells the name Stis instead of Steis.

March 3, 1889

Mr and Mrs. Thomas Campbell and R.L. Knott, of St. Louis, attended the funeral of Mr. William Steis, Monday. (Seems our Grandfather was in the courting stage of his relationship with Julia.)
